Prayer and Faith

“Prayer and faith are the opposite sides of the same coin.” I can’t tell you how many times I heard this statement from my Dad via sermons, classes and simple conversation. Though I must have to say, he is right. You will not have one with out the other. For faith to remain strong and grow one must pray. On the other hand, one will not pray unless they have faith, even if it’s only a wee bit of faith. We can and do pray anywhere and everywhere at any time. Prayer is a conversation with God. But like good conversation, often times we need to simply listen.

Thinking about this topic, I wonder how many of you want to talk about how to pray? Are there folks in the congregation interested in exploring various forms of prayer, such as lectio divina, contemplative prayer or walking a labyrinth? Do we have people who would like to participate in the prayer chain whom are not already? (If so, please contact Marty Goodman -723-1262. We could use your help.)

There are many ways to pray. We do so as a community of faith and individually, yet always with the Holy Spirit. This fall, I hope to hold a class or two on prayer. I would like to know how many of you would be interested in a one time only class or a series of classes on prayer.

In the meantime, I offer you something you can use. During the last week of July and first two weeks of August, you are invited to walk a prayer labyrinth in the front yard of the manse between sunrise and sunset. You may ask, what is labyrinth? Here is a great description provided by East Liberty Presbyterian Church:

“The labyrinth is an ancient, sacred symbol found in many religious traditions throughout the world. During the Middle Ages, labyrinths were prominent in numerous cathedrals in Europe, where Christians walked floor labyrinths or traced their fingers along the carved ridges of wall labyrinths. For medieval Christians, the labyrinth was a symbolic pilgrimage: instead of taking a costly and dangerous pilgrimage to Jerusalem, worshipers made a symbolic journey on a cathedral labyrinth. The best know of these Christian labyrinths is in Chartres Cathedral in France, which was built during the 13th century.

Today, modern pilgrims walk the labyrinth as one of many ways to pray and meditate. The winding path into the center and back out again is a metaphor for the journeys of life and faith. Unlike a maze, which has many paths and is a puzzle to solve, the labyrinth is a single path in and a single path out, and is designed to quiet the mind for prayer and meditation”(www.cathedralofhope.org/worship/labyrinth-at-elpc.html).

Again, please let me know what will be useful to teach you and your family more about prayer. Know that I constantly keep our congregation in prayer as I lift up prayers of thanksgiving and intercession for the church and the world.

Mission Connections—Dr. Eric & Rebecca Hinderliter

To the church of the good people of...the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.)... in God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ:

Grace to you and peace. We always give thanks to God for all of you and mention you in our prayers, constantly remembering before our God and Father your work of faith and labor of love and steadfastness of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ. For we know, brothers and sisters beloved by God, that he has chosen you... (1 Thessalonians 1: 2-4).

Here's some news for you from our mission partner, LCC International University (formerly Lithuania Christian College). On Sunday, May 1, 2011, LCC said goodbye to the largest graduating class in its history. The 132 graduates now join the more than 1,000 LCC alumni from previous years. LCC is an international school — nearly 40 percent of the students come from countries outside Lithuania. This year's graduates came from Lithuania (86), Belarus (20), Ukraine (17), Moldova (10), Latvia (5), Russia (4), United States (2), Albania (2) and Poland (1). What a joy we share with you for the work your mission giving makes possible.

We have been mission co-workers of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) for 10 years now — since 2001. Becky and I are here in Lithuania as classroom teachers with these students. We meet with them daily to share our gifts and to learn from our students.

One of the challenges we face in mission interpretation is explaining effectively our context. While we live in a particular place — Klaipėda, Lithuania — our daily contacts are with students from many countries. When visitors come here, they say, my ticket says Lithuania. True, we say, but the people you will meet and the issues you will hear about involve a dozen countries from the former Soviet Union. We need to understand the context of Lithuania but also the context of Belarus, Russia, Ukraine, Albania, Moldova and the so-called “stan” countries. Our students expect us to be up on the relevant issues: the coming presidential election (in Russia, that is), the migration issue (out of Latvia, that is), the economic issues (in Belarus, for example) and the issues in the church (from the historic confessions to the free churches). Very much we are expected to see the issues from the “other side,” a different perspective from that of “back home.” The question often becomes not, “Why do they do it that way?” but rather “Why do we do it this way?” Living in an international community is very different from what many expect when they think of Lithuania.

Here’s Veronica Tipirig, a business administration major from Moldova. Moldova is the poorest country in Europe. Veronica won a graduation prize for her study of agriculture in her native Moldova. She has ambitions of further study to improve her skills in economic development so that she might contribute to the betterment of Moldova.

Not everything is joyous. The bombing in the subway station in Minsk on April 11, 2011, which killed 14 people and injured more than 100 people, had a profound effect on the students at LCC from Belarus. They checked the list of the victims carefully; memorial candles were lit. We held a moment of silence in our classes for the victims. Together with the repercussions of the December 19,

Moment of silence 11:00 a.m. Remembering Minsk April 2011.

2010, presidential elections and the subsequent repressions of any opponent of the current regime created a very confusing time for these Belarusian students.

Students sought advice about their personal stance and wanted help assessing the risks to others if they became vocal and visible in protests. Here's how one student assessed the situation in Belarus today: "The country had a good start right after the U.S.S.R. collapsed but chose a harsh path. The democratization of Belarus goes so slowly and unevenly that it seems that the country is stuck in its position and moves backward in some areas. With the eastward enlargement of the European Union, Belarus has become a direct neighbor of democratic states. Yet its own domestic path of development has led the country further away from democratic norms, respect for human rights and fruitful cooperation with the international community." Yet there is hope. One student wrote, "I would love to say that Belarus has a hope for becoming a country that will proclaim democracy and support human rights."

Such is the work we do. Such is the work your giving makes possible. Such is God's plan. "For I know the plans I have for you," declares the LORD, 'plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future.'" (Jeremiah 29:11)

Thanks again for your love and steadfastness of hope.

Help Feed the Hungry

Get Your Hands Dirty in Mission

While Saturday, June 18, 2011 marks the opening of the Warren Farmer's Market, First Presbyterian Church will begin their participation on July 9. First Presbyterian Church is one of the key vendors of this market. With your weekly contributions, ranging from the best of your garden and scrumptious baked goods to other contributions, we make a difference in feeding the hungry.

The Farmer's Market is open every Saturday morning from 8:00 A.M. until 12:00 P.M. Last year $7,100.00 was raised and sent in support of the Presbyterian Hunger Program. Since its inception in 2000, $56,351.18 has been sent through this program to the Presbyterian Hunger Program. With your help, we can meet and even surpass last year's contribution. A sign-up sheet for workers is posted in Communications Hall.

Please join us in this fun and worthwhile mission endeavor which yields such life-changing results. Your support is appreciated.

I will get my hands dirty in mission by ~

- _____ donating produce from my garden
- _____ donating flowers from my garden
- _____ donating baked goods
- _____ staffing the stand one Saturday morning
- _____ helping set up at 6:30 a.m. Saturday mornings
- _____ helping tear down at 12:00 noon on Saturdays
